1. Tsian Plant

- a. Gate
- b. Old workshop, steel and masonry building, off limits.
- c. Old workshop, same as b., off limits.
Source learned that these two workshops produced measuring instruments and aircraft armatures.
- d. Compressor station, new stone building, in operation. [ ] 25X1
[ ] the building [ ] clean tile floor and 25X1
several operating machines, presumably compressors. From the machines various pipes led up to the vaulted ceiling and from there led horizontally out of the building.
- e. New workshop, a steel and masonry building with a glass roof and an extensive basement, not in operation. Soviets called the building "MZ Plant". It was subdivided into two parts. Although the southern part was off limits and had a guard at the entrance, [ ] the large and brightly illuminated hall [ ] believed to be 25X1 electric turbines. They were not in operation. The northern part of the building had several sections. The basement had many rooms with pipes up to 40 cm in diameter, machines, and in one large room, two boilers with an estimated capacity of 3,000 liters. Sweet odor was noticed near them. Five electric switchboards were observed on one of the upper floors.
- f. Fitting shop
- g. Garages
- h. New laboratory
- i. Open area where were parked four single-engine low-wing mono-planes, covered with canvas. Soviet car was observed under one wing. No work was done on these aircraft but it was assumed that assembly tests for instruments were performed with them.
- k. Boiler house, new stone building, about 40x20x12 meters. Four steam boilers were seen here.
